Guarded by an armed sentry and was patrolled by family escorted to the railway. Nothing was in evidence but he described the walls and halls as "dripping with sweat and blood."

One report here said four men rounded up by the RCMP officers in Montreal. Headquarters declined to disclose the reason for the arrests.

The investigation in the capital apparently continued through the night as a city police sound car and another car loaded with detectives were seen prowling the city streets today.

A CHECK-UP indicated all those involved apparently were civilian personnel employed in or connected with various government departments.

The detections were the one topic of conversation in civil service throughout the government and fellow employees checked to see who was missing from their staff in an effort to determine who might be involved.

Among the many rumors—they were just that, rumors—was one which said both major and minor civil servants were involved and that at least one high-ranking government official would face serious charges.

UNOFFICIAL CIRCLES generally were agreed that the "secret" involved must be in relation to the atomic bomb, in whose development Canada played a major part.

It was reported that as a result of the investigation a secret guard had been clamped on the atomic bomb plant at Chalk River, approximately 125 miles northwest of here, and that under government official set-ups near the capital had been put under "secret" orders.

IT WAS LEARNED that for some time a quiet check-up had been under way of undercover agents known to be in the capital. National Research Council employees engaged in the atomic bomb have been watched.

The care with which the government monitored all traits relative to Mr. King's charges were more than blanketed out. Usually well-informed unofficial sources had no information while official circles withdrew into complete silence.

One official source said quite frankly: "The issue is not involved in making any comment at all. Until the commission gets under way and begins to receive evidence, not one single scrap of information will be released. It is too dangerous for comment."

ONE UNCONFIRMED report said that the press representative of the foreign mission concerned in the inquiry were called to the east block of the parliament buildings yesterday and were personally handed the Prime Minister's statement by Norman Robertson, undersecretary of state.

At the Russian embassy, reported to be the mission concerned, the staff went over their usual business today.

It was the mission's official duty to comment on Mr. King's announcement in the absence of Ambassador Georges Zarewsky in the Soviet.

THE UNSUSPECTING CAPITAL was stunned last night by Prime Minister Mackenzie King's announcement that a Royal Commission inquiry was underway and arrests already had been made of present and past government employees suspected of supplying secret information to a foreign power.

The "fortress mission" in Ottawa to which information was disclosed, authorized sources said the country involved was Russia. There was widespread speculation that the information concerned atomic energy.

The prime minister's carefully worded statement said the government had "information of undoubted authenticity," which established that there have been disclosures of secret and confidential information to unauthorized persons.

Authorized sources said the staff of a foreign mission in Ottawa had been taken into custody, some known to have been in the National Research Council.

AND WHEN YOU GET IT BACK TO THE LUGS THEY KEPT IT UNDER THE SAFE?

THE CASE would remain "in the hands of the law."

How long the government had been gathering information leading to yesterday's sudden action was not known, but there was unofficial conjecture that the Prime Minister's statement was preceded by the three-power declaration on the atomic bomb in November also may have concerned the information leak.

THERE ALSO WAS an unconfirmed report that the Prime Minister recently had made a secret trip to Washington where he was known to have been in touch with British Foreign Secretary Bevin before proceeding with the case here.

Whatever the background, it was known that the Canadian Mount Police reserves were called in to guard the National Research Council building where some of the arrests were made before dawn yesterday. Papers and documents were taken from the building and at least one innocent civil servant was taken into custody.

U.S. HAD KNOWLEDGE OF PLANNED ARRESTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The state department said today that it was aware in advance of Canada's plans for the arrests as a result of a leak of "secret and confidential information."

But all a spokesman would say was that "We did have knowledge of the whole situation."

THE WHITE HOUSE had no comment on the Ottawa announcement that Prime Minister Mackenzie King had taken up the case of the "secret visit" to Washington, presidential secretary Charles G. Ross said.

"Prime Minister Mackenzie King has made no secret visit to Washington," Mr. Ross said. "He is in Ottawa."

THE ROYAL commission, consisting of Supreme Court Justices Robert Taschereau and R. L. Kellock, was hearing evidence in Ottawa, but its report would be made public.

Because of the "serious nature of the evidence already adduced," the commission had asked the justice minister to "order the arrest of the persons named in the indictment, and the detention of a number of persons known or suspected to be implicated."

Mr. King said "It would not be in the public interest to make any further comment on this matter."

Bus Conversion Plans for 1948 Given Approval

Two major street railway to trolley bus conversion projects to be carried out in 1948 were recommended by the utilities committee to city council at a meeting of the committee held Friday.

THE PROJECTS are the conversion of the present street railway operation from 101 street to Jasper avenue through to 124 street and north on to street to 118 avenue, and the conversion of the 107 avenue loop from 101 street and north to 124 street, then west on the avenue to 124 street, south on that street to Jasper avenue and then east to 101 street. Buses will run in reverse on this proposed loop.

The committee also intimated that the recent decision of city council to operate trolley buses over the high level bridge gave the green light to the commissioners to complete arrangements to have this work carried out during 1947.

The estimated cost of the two projects recommended for 1948 is $7,000,000, and the cost of the reconstruction of the south side loop over the high level bridge to be carried out in 1947 is $523,000.

ON THE 1948 PROJECTS it is proposed to operate 25 trolley coaches on the west end and the 107 avenue loop. These vehicles will cost $400,000, and orders for them will be placed immediately. This cost will be borne by the street railway department.

Also to be borne by the department is the cost of construction overhead wiring from 109 street to 118 avenue. This is estimated at $30,000. Lifting of rails along the Jasper avenue west to 118 avenue will cost approximately $31,000, and paving of the track from 109 street to 124 street to 118 avenue will cost $10,000, of which $17,000 will be borne by the street railway department, and the balance by the city at large.

General construction on the 107 street loop will cost $200,000. This includes the cost of construction overhead wiring from 109 street to 118 avenue. This is estimated at $30,000. Lifting of rails along the Jasper avenue west to 118 avenue will cost approximately $31,000, and paving of the track from 109 street to 124 street to 118 avenue will cost $10,000, of which $17,000 will be borne by the street railway department, and the balance by the city at large.

THE COMMITTEE reported progress on the 1948 conversion project.

gram which includes the extension of service to Calder, and the conversion of the east loop of the street railway system to trolley bus operation. The conversion of the Jasper Place bus route to trolley bus operation, and the creation of some bus routes.

Ald. C. E. Garley, at the opening of the meeting, withdrew a motion that an expert be appointed to review the present railway system.

He said he was under the impression that trolley buses would not handle the west end traffic, but was assured by Thomas Ferrier, street railway superintendent, that trolley buses will carry 70 to 75 passengers while street cars will carry 50 to 60.

A REQUEST from Forest Heights for city bus service from that district through to the post office was laid on the table pending the result of an application to the provincial Legislature which would enable the city to charge a fare greater than the general rate for service to outlying districts. It was stated that if the amendment to the charter is passed it will permit the city to give better service to Forest Heights residents than they are now getting, and the cost will probably be the same for the same transfer privileges.

A request for transportation facilities in the Waterdale district cannot be met until the paving program for that district has been completed.

What Your Church Is Doing

Student Christian Movement

In Canada and Entire World Doing Work of Great Value

By HELEN FERRIS

Working in factories to get a better understanding of labor conditions, and providing soup kitchens for stricken Chinese students, are just a few of the worthy undertakings of the Student Christian Movement of Canada, which tomorrow will observe its annual day of prayer for students throughout the world.

The SCM is an international and inter-denominational organization designed to help universities and colleges students maintain a balance between religion and education. The SCM's development may keep pace with their intellectual progress. It was in 1885 by John R. Mott. Today, the federation operates in 40 countries and has 20 groups in Canada.

Full-time secretary of the SCM at the University of Alberta is the Rev. Don Read, B.A., L.Th., from Perdue, Saskatchewan, who has provided able leadership and counsel of students since the fall of 1944. Further full-time leadership of a high quality is needed at the university, but the movement is handicapped by the lack of funds for salaries, having no grants or similar source of income, and being very dependent upon canvassing.

THE CAMPUS PROGRAM of the SCM consists of study groups, this year on "The Essence of Christianity," "Redecovering the Bible," and "The Christian Mission in Our Day," daily chapel services, and monthly student assemblies in various city churches. Forthrightly "Open House" under the general title of "Discovering Christianity," "Answer to . . . have guests on such subjects as "Racial Discrimination," "Challenge of Communism to Christianity," and "The Future of Christianity in the World."

In addition to serious thinking, and in order to share the life, SCM members learn the problems of relevant Christian living in an industrial society. Members of the SCM participate in various "Student-Industry" projects. Last year, from June-August, 30 students from all parts of the Dominion went to Welland, Ontario, and worked in the Atlas steel mill; cotton mill; electrical industries; paper mills; and implement factories, and Canada's only pipe-making firm. They lived in quarters formerly occupied by Chinese workers. Their wages ranged from 20 cents per hour, but because it was felt that the same amount of work was done by all, the students pooled their earnings that all might share equally. The project was under the direction of the Rev. Alexander Macdonald, minister from New Zealand, recently returned from England, who was visiting in Canada at the time.

Before this venture, students were engaged in volunteer short-term work projects, usually two weeks, without remuneration. Next summer they plan to help in the fruit orchards of B.C., the sugar-beet harvest in Alberta, and the market gardens in Winnipeg. During the war, the SCM was steadfast in its resistance to the powers of oppression. When Holland was invaded and the Jews demanded that the movement exclude Jews from its membership, the SCM disavowed rather than accede to a practice that was contrary to its ideals. Many of its members joined the underground.

While students were prisoners of the Red Cross to send them to the United States for their studies. An arrangement was also made with the University of London whereby they were given credit for their work, examinations and the like. Many of its members joined the underground.

With the Japanese invasion of China, the SCM has been forced to take 1,500 to 2,000 miles inland, taking refuge in discarded temples without facilities or equipment of any kind—in the face of the enemy to continue their medical education in caves. Again the SCM sent them food and clothing, and made a public health house possible.

IN THE THEATRE the SCM has been active in the reconstruction, through the WSCF, students have already established a new theatre in Chungking, built houses in Kuming, and a rest home at Combloux for students who are physically and mentally exhausted from French repression. The SCM is also operating a university sanatorium for French and Belgian students.

The SCM also plans to rebuild the destroyed dormitories in China.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

Cries for Help

CONTACT with suffering stirs us to instant pity, and few close their ears when the stricken cry out for help. Scripture relates how pity compelled the Good Samaritan to neglect his own affairs to rescue and befriend a stranger who lay wounded by the roadside.

But what about the misery which we know exists but cannot actually see? What about the millions today in many countries who are starving, who are without proper clothing or shelter, who may be doomed to linger in suffering until death brings merciful release?

Every age bears tribute to noble-hearted men and women who recognized the needs of their fellows and made efforts—often heroic—to help them. They were great Christians not merely because they responded to the suffering exposed before their eyes, but because their hands were stretched over countless unseen unfortunate whose plight also demanded attention.

This is the pity the world needs so desperately today. It is not the pity of sentimentality. It does not shed vain tears. It does not wring its hands in futile anguish. Instead, it demands that everything possible be done to assuage the burdens of distant victims of war and disease whose cries cannot be heard, but which are a challenge nevertheless to the world's conscience.

Millions are crying out for pity—the rich, overflowing pity that will open purses, prompt immediate aid, in the name of Christian love. Many of us may not have much to give, but if we are rich in pity, we shall find the means and the way to help.

Technical Training Will Be Broadened

A greatly-expanded program of technical education is in the making, according to A. P. Tingler, supervisor of industrial arts, department of education, who has returned to Edmonton after attending a convention of the American Vocational Education Association and the American Industrial Arts Association in Buffalo, N.Y.

The opinion of the convention was that young people in the post-war world will come face to face with a world of new inventions, methods and processes and new demands for competence in citizenship.

EDUCATION authorities, some 2,000 of whom attended the meeting, recognize the heavy responsibilities they face to meet the needs of youth, Mr. Tingler says.

Alberta's plans for greatly developed methods in technical education compare favorably with similar plans being developed in many of the states of the United States, he added. More federal aid to vocational training in Alberta is a great need in Alberta, he contends in order that youth in the rural areas should be as well served as it is in the cities.

Historic Store Near City Centre Being Levelled As Garage Expands

By JACK WILCE

Originally John Brown's general store, where Indians came along the trail from the east to Fort Edmonton used to trade the one-room log building that was the cause of a court case in the supreme court of Canada, and the structure that was the first Queen's Avenue building is now being dismantled to make way for a new building.

ONE OF EDMONTON'S oldest buildings, now situated at 1015 91 street, it has been the property of J. J. D. Potts, manager of the Central Tire Service, since 1933. Mr. Potts is now having it torn down in order to enlarge his garage.

The building was moved to its present location in 1892 but was built several years previously. When the building was owned by John Brown, it was located near 91 street and right in the middle of what is now Jasper Avenue. The city wanted to extend Edmonton's main street, Mr. Brown refused to move his store, demanding his square's rights.

Consequently the case had to go to the supreme court, before Mr. Brown would move. Al Brown, a resident of 1015 91 street, (no relation to John Brown), says that John told him he would have moved.

His store gladly if authorities had asked him, instead of demanding that he shift location.

FIRST PROPRIETOR of the building after it was moved was the Salvation Army. It appeared that it was used at the same time as Queen's Avenue school. Sixty-five-year-old Henry McDonald, an employee of the city, well remembers the building at the place where he saw his first Santa Claus. Mr. McDonald said that a hole was cut through the ceiling and Santa Claus was let down on the roof and came down the chimney. He recalls the surprise of the few white boys and girls and Indian children who were attending the Christmas event. Where the hole was located still is plainly visible.

The building brings back many memories to Edmonton pioneers. J. A. Warner once had his hardware store located in the building along with a tinmith shop and harness repair. He recalls tales of when men used to come from the Grande Prairie district to be outfitted at his store.

MR. WARNER TELLS how they used to arrive in the city with their faces and feet frozen. "Yes," said Edmonton's pioneer hardware merchant, "it seems a far cry back to those days when they visited my store and the driving horses, mud you, but oxen. I can still see them laying across from the front of the store chewing their cud. My goodness, but that seems a long time ago now."

Other businesses that located in the old building were the Dominion Dining Hall and an implement store operated by W. D. Graham. About 1907 a fire burned a number of nearby buildings but John Brown's old grocery building came through unscathed.

SPRUCE logs in the building still look as good as new. For a number of years they have been covered over with shingles.

WHEN THE NEW BILL becomes law, the general principle governing the taxation by a fixed percentage varying with the length of time between deaths.

Fifty per cent of the tax may be excused if there are two deaths within 12 months, 40 per cent if a death in two years and there are similar progressive reductions for periods of the amount may be excused.

A STATEMENT OF POLICY

The Dominion Government has announced that as market conditions permit, wartime restrictions on prices are to be gradually lifted.

Realizing the dangers of an inflationary rise in the cost of living, we believe it is the responsibility of all concerned to guard against that possibility by exerting every effort to keep prices down to their present level.

It is therefore the policy of the Hudson's Bay Company to observe these principles and to give the Government our full co-operation in preventing inflation, as we gradually move from a period of wartime control to a sane peacetime economy.

Ultimate Palestine Settlement Is Seen

Confidence that the strife existing at the present time between the Arab world in Palestine and the Jews would ultimately be settled was expressed Friday evening by Mos Peksaryk, Edmonton lawyer, when he addressed the regular monthly dinner meeting of the South Edmonton Businessmen's Association.

THE MEETING, held in the basement of Knox United church, was attended by 72 members under the chairmanship of Dr. J. D. Hawkins. The speaker was introduced by H. McKillop.

The main address was preceded by an outline of the forthcoming Palestine problem, presented by H. Moore as representative of the carnival sponsors, the Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce.

DRAWING ON HIS experience as a "visitor to the Holy Land," Peksaryk described conditions in that part of the world and referred to the discussions of the Arab-Jewish problem as led by world figures.

He said that Palestine has been to eventually become a member of the United Nations as a prosperous commonwealth.

Hospital Board Will Ask City For Big Grant

Application to the city for a grant of $100,000 to cover operating expenses for 1934 was approved by members of the Edmonton Hospital Board Friday at its regular monthly meeting in the Royal Alexandra hospital.

THE ESTIMATES, described by chairman Vernon Pearson as being "on the conservative side," were approved by the board, authorizing Mr. Pearson and Dr. A. F. Anderson, Royal Alexandra, superintendent, to take the matter up with city officials.

Part of the expenses of operation in the past year had to be distributed to a number of accounts and that without billing the city for indirect costs it was used to offset this expense.

J. BROWN, EDMONTON, was installed as a new appointee to the hospital board succeeding Mayor Brown. Mr. Brown had been on the finance committee and executive, Dr. H. L. Nix and Dr. N. W. Nix were appointed to the associate medical staff.

The hospital reported earnings were down from $47,474 to $47,474, a reduction of $47,474. It was explained, however, that January earnings were brought up to date Dec. 31.

In the cash situation the report showed something of an improvement over the previous record, and in keeping with the trend of costs of operation the hospital showed a forward looking to an increase of 30 per cent over the last year.

THE BOARD ALSO was looking forward to being recommended from the Dominion government through negotiations with the department of veterans' affairs for the care of their patients. A better hospital was sought for maternity patients.

The board members noted with satisfaction that the hospital had received approval by the city authorities, the contractors and the city for the new hospital building.

In the statement of expenses and earnings a comparison of 1934 over 1933 showed an increase of $320,462.

For the same period total cost of operation at $4 per bed per day showed an increase of $8,641. Estimated earnings for the coming year were placed at $47,325.

Cecil Boggs, city tax driver, told the court that he had taken the accused man to the Lasko farm about 8:30 p.m. on Feb. 3. He told the court that Tkacz bought some shoes in Edmonton and that he had "tried out" his rifle on the drunk side of the hotel.

He described the accused as "a little on the drunk side." He had not remembered anything of the conversation on the way down, Boggs said to the court.

Oil Company Makes Report On Progress

On the invitation of the company, management, 20 shareholders of Ham River Oil Ltd., attended an informal meeting at the Manning Trust Co. to hear a comprehensive progress report on their company's operations.

A. CYRIL PERRY, a director of the company, and manager of Ham River Agencies, Inc., reported for the company, reviewed Ham River Oil development since the inception of the company, covering every phase: finance, properties, equipment, drilling, etc., illustrating his talk with colored movies.

Being the first to enter this promising foothills area it was revealed that Ham River Oil Ltd., had the advantage of securing the most favorable locations and their holdings now comprise some 17,000 acres on the Ham River and Clearwater territories.

THE COLORED movies also brought to shareholders a very realistic picture of actual drilling operations now continuing at both Ham River No. 3 and No. 4 wells, showing the extensive modern drilling equipment, steel derricks and plant which is all owned outright by the company.

It was pointed out that important oil interests from many quarters were now concentrating in the foothills field, having acquired available acreage on all sides of Ham River holdings. Much favorable comment was heard among the audience, which was a unique position which Ham River Oil Ltd. hold in the field and the bright prospects for the future success in the immediate future.

J. L. IRWIN, supervisor of publications for the province of Alberta and former statistician for the department of the Interior, was in the meeting, giving a most interesting review of the great natural wealth of Alberta, and particularly the importance of oil and the intensive development of the foothills area by many companies. Mr. Irwin paid special tribute to Ham River Oil Ltd., as the pioneers in this field and to their continued active development program.

they were at making them. In fact they show an amazing reluctance to see that anything is done about keeping them.

It is true that most men who left jobs of various kinds to join the service are, on the whole, getting good treatment. In many cases the men are being given more than they dared to expect. And for that they are very grateful. But when it is suggested to anyone in authority that now would be a proper time to consider the men who have been in the service of the government since the war, they look hurt and shocked. They insist that these people have served well and faithfully during the war years. They have succeeded in making themselves well-nigh indispensable. They are depending on the job for their livelihood. If they are let out now where are they going to get another job? Why it wouldn't be fair to let them go!

But let's stop and think for a moment. These people who took jobs after signing statements admitting that they realized their jobs were temporary only, and that they would willingly relinquish them, had no right to consider that they would be allowed to stay on when the war was over. They were presumably all people who volunteered to do essential work for the duration. In exactly that way the servicemen volunteered to wear uniforms. They knew that these jobs were to be made available for the veterans.

When the veterans were through with their job, or as they became through, the services demolished them. In the same way the "temporary" employees should be demolished too. That is fair. That is giving everybody what was promised to them. That is treating everyone who they were led to expect they would be treated.

IT IS GOING TO BE interesting. In the next few months to see how good our patriotic resolutions are to live up to their promise, at keeping their good resolutions. If they are prepared to keep those promises they should never have been made. If it is unjust to expect them to keep them then it was certainly unjust, and downright dishonest, for them to pass them in the first place. If the promises had been made the veterans would have no claim to the jobs. But the promises were made. Fortunately for the claim-makers the veterans haven't been very insistent—yet—that they should keep the promises they made. But the number of veterans who are unemployed is all out of proportion to the resolution they bear to the population as a whole. Think it over!

University Student Faces Theft Charge
A student at the University of Alberta, Benjamin D. Daley of Sylvan Lake faced two charges of theft and one of possessing a firearm when he appeared in city police court Friday morning. The case was adjourned until Feb. 27. He is alleged to have stolen an electric razor, suit glasses and a cigarette lighter from James Ford on Nov. 21 and a pair of gloves and a partly consumed bottle of rum from John Nicholson two days later.

Prof. John Reymes-King Triumphs In Recital at Robertson Church

Prof. John Reymes-King, head of the music department, University of Alberta, and director of music at Robertson United Church, firmly established himself as a musician and interpretive artist with his recital on Friday night at Robertson church. His recital was in aid of the Robertson Memorial Hall building fund and was sponsored by the church's Religious Education Council. Unfortunately the site of the audience must have preceded any great boost for the fund.

WHILE IT WAS not his first appearance before an Edmonton audience, it was his first major recital since taking over last fall his post at the university and church. He came here with a reputation already established. Among other posts he had held was organist at Metropolitan United Church, Toronto, an endowed position in which his immediate predecessor had been Dr. H. A. Fricker, who before coming to Canada, had been one of Britain's best organists.

By his performance on Friday night, Prof. Reymes-King amply justified all the glowing accounts of his playing that had preceded him. It is safe to say that never has there been more brilliant, sensitive and artistic organ playing in this city. They have been equalled on rare occasions, but never surpassed.

THROUGHOUT he displayed a thorough and complete knowledge of the instrument, its possibilities and capabilities. His use of the manuals, individually and in combination, revealed a searching insight into the music and a gift of interpretation encountered all too seldom.

There are some who contend that organ is dull, uninteresting and lacking in color. It can be all of that, but so can the violin, piano, trumpet, saxophone or any other instrument.

BUT IN THE HANDS of Prof. Reymes-King the organ was capable of delicate, expressive effects; and tremendous climaxes plus everything in between. With equal facility and mature musicianship he moved from the magnificent Toccata and Fugue in D Minor by Bach, through the same composer's Flocks in Pastures Abiding.

LEADER of Band is Noted Saxophonist
A saxophonist comparable with the greatest of them all, Charlie Barnet will come to Edmonton on the night of Feb. 19, with a dance band that is tops for color, rhythm and style.

The majority of the numbers will be built about the saxophone of Barnet himself.

TAIL, good-looking, Charlie Barnet might easily be mistaken for a Hollywood star. Actually he has had several stints in the film colony, where he appeared in motion pictures, which starts at "Me, I'm Gotta Be That" and "Smile Gals in Your Eyes."

But the reason itself has to have more than just an attractive title or the congregation won't come back, he added.

RECENTLY discharged after four years' service with the RCAF, W. J. Winchester is now in the process of rehabilitating himself with the opening this week of his new business establishment, Winchester's Grocery and Confectionery, 2627 Jasper avenue.

THE STORE, which was formerly Trademans Food Store, was purchased by Mr. Winchester following his discharge from the service. He said that he had received excellent help through the department of veterans' affairs here.

Previously his employer, Mr. Winchester was employed by the Hudson's Bay Company as a fur trading post manager for 20 years, 41 years of which was spent in the Yukon.

During the four years in the RCAF he was stationed for one year in Newfoundland, about 18 months at the west coast and for two and a half years was stationed along the North West Siding Route, at Fort St. John, Fort Nelson and Edmonton as senior flying control officer.

MR. WINCHESTER intends to do some remodeling to his store this summer. His wife and two children are residing with him in Edmonton at 1120 89 street.

HEAVY TAXES
NIA YORK, Feb. 16 (CP)—Every man, woman and child in Australia paid an average of 140 lbs. (about 100 in direct taxation) during the last full year of the war, the Australian news and information bureau said yesterday. Quoting figures issued by the Commonwealth statistics office, it said the average payment per head during the first year of the war was $120.

OLDEST CRICKETER
Is Dead in East
PETERBOROUGH, Ont. Feb. 16 (CP)—Robert N. Stuart, 83, believed to be the oldest cricketer player in Canada, died at his home yesterday. A native of London, England, he was closely associated with the Peterborough cricket club. He played the first game of cricket at his 17th birthday in 1941 against an RAF team.

Prof. John Reymes-King Triumphs In Recital at Robertson Church

And the Choral Preludes Good Christian Men Rejoice and In The Joy, to Handel's Cuckoo and Allegro and the Peace and The Rejoicing from "The Fireworks" music.

Bellman's Choral, Minuet and Ronde Française; Karg-Elert's Corrente e Siciliano and Sinfonia Allegro afforded him additional opportunities to unfold not only his own extensive executive resources but the many fine qualities of the organ.

NORMA MADILL, contralto, sang Cor Mio Ben, Giordano; a version of Handel's Largo and Mendelssohn's On Wings of Song. Her work was most creditable although there was a tendency toward insecurity of intonation on occasions. Prof. Reymes-King's accompaniments were superb.

The church's junior choir acquitted itself creditably in Shaw's Glad That I Live Am I, Whitehead's Come Loyal Hearts and True and the Evening Prayer from Hamperdick's Hansel and Gretel—J.O.

DISEASE INCIDENCE Remains Low Here
Despite a small epidemic of dums the incidence of communicable disease remained low during January, it was reported to the city commissioners Friday by Dr. C. M. Little, medical officer of health.

HE REPORTED ALSO that with almost all the following communicable diseases, the incidence of each of them has been able to divide the city into six districts, with an sanitary inspector in charge of each district. This will permit a more intensive coverage of each area, and will forestall many cases of complaint.

During January inspectors of the department made 842 food inspections and 3388 pounds of foodstuffs were condemned. Of this total 725 pounds were tuberculous, 325 pounds of pork carcasses found with pneumonia, 300 of beef infected with arthritis, and 1448 pounds condemned for minor causes.

CANNED SUMMER

THE bright sunshine was warm, but the air was as nippy as strong peppermint. Little flat drifts of snow lay in shady spots behind fallen logs and among the thick bushes. It was the sort of day for a walk, but most of the Teenie Weenies lay napping in the shoe house. They had eaten too much of the baked lima bean and the wintergreen berry pie the Cook had served for their Sunday dinner. The Duncle lay sprawled in front of the tiny fireplace and his snoring, which sounded like an angry bumblebee's buzz, drowned out the other Teenie Weenie snores.

"I'm going for a walk!" announced the Lady of Fashion. "It's too nice a day to spend indoors."

The Doctor and the Policeman agreed to go along and the three tiny people set off toward the woods near the Teenie Weenie village. They hadn't gone far before they spotted Skippy sitting on a log near the entrance of his hole. The Teenie Weenies hadn't seen Skippy for a long time, for chipmunks usually spend most of the Winter in their burrows. Skippy had brought several hickory nuts from the storeroom in his hole and he had nearly finished his meal when the Teenie Weenies joined him. The little folk have known the chipmunk for so long they have come to understand his chattering, so there was much talk of this and that.

"I should think you'd hate to spend the Winter in that deep, dark hole," remarked the Lady of Fashion. "If you could go south as the birds do, you could enjoy Summer all the year long."

THE TEENIE WEEENIES

BY W.M. DONAHUE

"But I do enjoy Summer all Winter," answered Skippy, with a surprised look. "You see, all Summer long the nuts are growing. They soak up sunshine, warm rains and fresh air and by the time they are ripe in the Fall they are chuck-full of all the Summer. I gather the nuts and store them away and, during the Winter when I'm hungry, I crack a nut just the same as big people open cans of vegetables and fruit. As I eat that nut, it makes me think of all the Summer that grew into it. I can smell violets and sweet clover. I can hear the thump of rabbits' feet and the splash of warm rain. I can feel the coolness under the ferns when the sun is hot."

Skippy rested his cheek on his paw and a dreamy look came into his eyes.

"I see," said the Lady of Fashion, "you have Summer all Winter."

Skippy stared off into the distance and as the little people slipped silently away, the Policeman muttered under his breath, "Canned Summer."
